The method for calculating the minimum amount due shall be: 10% newly added transaction amount of the current period plus 10% of any newly cash advance amount in the current period and 5% of the outstanding amount from the preceding periods of the credit card amount (in case such amount is lower than NT$1,000, it shall be NT$ 1,000), plus the total transaction amount exceeding the credit limit, total outstanding minimum amount due from the previous periods, default penalties, revolving credit interest, and annual fee, handling fees for cash advance, report of loss, re-issuance of credit card, and retrieval of cardholder's sales voucher copy. The newly -added transaction amount of the current period" refers to the amount paid through credit card for order/purchase of goods, obtaining of services or payment of fees, excluding such amount as cash advance and balance transfer.

3. Revolving Balance Interest and Default Penalty Fee

In the use of revolving credit (i.e., not all the transaction items are paid in full), only the amount equivalent to or exceeding the minimum amount due of the current period (the amount of which shall be no less than NT$ 1,000) must be paid to the Bank, the balance of which will be calculated into the revolving interest and the payment be delayed, which can be paid in full or in part from anytime. The balance will be calculated into the principal account of the revolving credit. The interest rate of the revolving principal account balance shall be calculated at an annual interest rate of 5.68%-15.00% (daily interest rate at 0.0155%-0.0410%), to the date of the settlement of the account. The Bank reserves the right, within the annual interest rate range described above, to adjust the cardholder's rate on a quarterly basis to reflect the cardholder's current credit situation, credit card utilization, payment history and other credit scoring criteria (including but not limited to delayed payment history, payment behavior, short-term financing behavior, total debt exposure, credit utilization, new debt exposure, irregular credit behavior, suspense payment, bounced cheque, suspense credit card, apply for debt restructure and others), as well as operational concerns, production cost, maintenance cost, service delivery costs, processing costs, financing costs and risk considerations. Based on the Bank's credit scoring system, the Bank will assign an interest rate to each cardholder and inform cardholders of their applicable interest rate via statement messages, written notice or e-mail, or in any other manners as agreed. For cardholders whose interest rate is adjusted upwards, the Bank shall provide notice 60 days in advance. The credit card payable of the current period will not be calculation to the revolving principal account of the current period. Where the revolving credit is applied in the coming period, it may be calculated into the principal account of the revolving balance interest of the coming period. There is no revolving balance interest charged for the current period if the cardholder pays full statement balances by payment due date or if the statement balances with outstanding balance below NT$1,000.

In the event that the cardholder fails to pay the minimum amount due by the payment due date in any month, the cardholder will be charged revolving interest accruing on the outstanding balance" and imposed a default penalty fee. The default penalty fee is calculated as follows (In the event that the cardholder violates the agreement and fails to make the minimum amount due by the payment due date for over 3 terms, the default penalty will be charged for 3 consecutive terms as the maximum amount.): In the month of default or late payment, the default penalty fee is NT$300. When the cardholder defaults or fails to make the minimum amount due for 2 consecutive months, the default penalty is NT$400. In the event that the cardholder fails to make the minimum amount due by the payment due date for 3 or more consecutive months, the default penalty is NT$500. The cardholder whose monthly outstanding balance is below NT$1000 will not be imposed default penalty. * Above charges will be collected in the latest statement.

Revolving balance interest calculation example:

Ms. Lin has paid off her balance in the previous month. The closing date for Ms. Lin's credit card statement is Sep 3 and the payment due date is Sep 21. The revolving interest rate is 14.88%.

She spends NT$50,000 on Aug 20, for which the posting date is Aug 22. She also spends NT$3,000 on Sep 1, for which the posting date is Sep 3.

9/3 statement detail:

1. Total outstanding balance: NT$53,000 (=NT$50,000+NT$3,000)

2. The Required Minimum Payment Due: NT$5,300 (=NT$53,000*10%)

Ms. Lin does not make the payment by Oct 3 the closing date, and the outstanding balance is NT$53,000 (=NT$53,000-NT$0)

10/3 statement detail:

1. Revolving balance interest: NT$ 914 (=NT$244.60+NT$669.80)

8/22-9/2 (NT$50,000*14.88%)*12days/365= NT$244.60

9/3-10/3 (NT$50,000*14.88%)*31days/365= NT$669.80

2. Default penalty: Because Ms. Lin fails to make the minimum payment of NT$5,300 on Sep 21, she will be imposed default penalty of NT$300 for the first delinquent month. The effective interest rate on the sum of the revolving credit interest and default penalty is 21.76% (=14.88%+6.88%)

3. Total outstanding balance : NT$54,214 (=NT$53,000+NT$914+NT$300)

4. Minimum payment : NT$9,164 (=NT$5,300+ minimum amount payable in the previous term)+NT$2,650 [=NT$53,000*5% (Calculated as NT$1,000 if less than NT$1,000)]+NT$914+NT$300)
